Under an agreement signed between Sentinel Asset Management, Inc., the Sentinel Funds' investment adviser ("Sentinel"), and Touchstone Advisors, Inc., Touchstone has agreed to acquire certain assets related to Sentinel's business of providing investment advisory services to the Sentinel Funds. Closing of the transaction is subject to customary closing conditions, including the approval of the shareholders of each applicable series of Sentinel Group Funds, Inc., and is expected to be completed later in 2017. More information can be obtained at sentinelinvestments.com

The Sentinel Unconstrained Bond Fund is not included in the terms of the purchase agreement. The Board of Directors of Sentinel Group Funds, Inc. has approved the liquidation of the Sentinel Unconstrained Bond Fund, effective at the close of business on August 25, 2017. Effective August 11, 2017, the Unconstrained Bond Fund will be closed to new investors, new purchases and exchanges into the Fund. Please refer to the prospectus for further information.

Data and performance shown for Class I shares as of June 30, 2017 unless noted and reflects reinvested distributions. Composition of holdings is subject to change.

Investment return and principal value will vary so that you may have a gain or loss when you sell shares. Past performance does not guarantee future results; current performance may be higher or lower than data quoted. 1. Inception of the Fund.
2. Total net assets of all share classes.
3. Expense ratio data is sourced from the Fund's most recent prospectus.
4. Total annual turnover quoted from the most recent annual report.

SEC annualized yield is computed by dividing net investment income by the product of the average daily number of shares outstanding that were eligible to receive dividends and the maximum offering price per share on the last day for the 30-day or one month period ending on the date for which other performance data is shown. Effective duration is a measure of a bond's price sensitivity to changes in interest rates. The shorter (longer) the duration, the lower (higher) the interest rate risk and price volatility. Weighted average life measures how long it will take, on average, to receive the repayment of the principal amount on a debt security. Average life is often used in connection with mortgage-backed securities as a measurement of the length of time, on average, before the underlying mortgages are paid, refinanced, or otherwise retired. TBA: to be announced. The actual mortgage-backed security that will be delivered is not designated until 48 hours prior to the established trade settlement date with the broker.

*"Other" includes Agency Debentures, ABS and Non-Corporate Credit.

‡Quality Allocation - Ratings (other than US Treasury securities or securities issued or backed by US agencies) provided by Standard & Poor's, Moody's, and Fitch. Where the three rating agencies rate a security differently, Sentinel uses the median, but if there are only two agency ratings, the lower rating is used. If a security is rated the same by two agencies, but differently by the third, the rating assigned by the two in agreement is used. A portion of the portfolio's securities may not be rated. Breakdown is not a S&P credit rating or an opinion of S&P as to the creditworthiness of such portfolio. Ratings apply to the creditworthiness of issuers of the underlying securities and not the Fund or its shares. Ratings are subject to change.

Fixed income securities are subject to credit and interest rate risk. Bond values will generally decrease when interest rates rise and will generally increase when interest rates fall. Bonds with lower credit ratings are more speculative and likely to default than higher quality bonds and tend to fluctuate more widely in value. Mortgage-backed securities (MBS) are subject to prepayment risk. These risks may result in greater share price volatility. International securities are subject to political influences, currency fluctuations and economic cycles that may be unrelated to those affecting the domestic financial markets and may experience wider price fluctuations than US domestic securities. Fund shares are not insured or guaranteed by the US government or its agencies.

The Fund may use derivatives, which are financial contracts whose value depends upon or is derived from the value of an underlying asset, reference rate, or index. The Fund may use derivatives as part of a strategy designed to reduce exposure to certain risks, such as risks associated with changes in interest rates, or currency or credit risk ("hedging"). The use of derivatives may reduce the Fund's return and increase the volatility in movements in the Fund's net asset value. For additional information regarding the use of derivatives, please see the Fund's current prospectus.

The Fund may invest in distressed securities, which are securities that are near, or currently going through, bankruptcy. These securities tend to offer higher yields, but may have greater risk that may result in the Fund's share price declining. An active trading approach increases the Fund's costs and may reduce the Fund's performance. It may also increase the amount of capital gains that the Fund pays. The Fund may engage in short sales. Short selling involves certain risks, including potential additional costs associated with covering short positions and a possibility of unlimited losses on certain short sale positions. The Fund may engage in certain transactions, such as derivative transactions, that may result in the Fund becoming leveraged. Leverage risk may expose the Fund to potential losses that exceed the amount originally invested by the Fund. At times, due to adverse market conditions, the Fund may not be able to sell certain securities without a substantial loss in price, if at all.

1. Class I shares are not subject to a sales charge. Only eligible investors may purchase Class I shares, as described in the prospectus.

The Fund has an absolute return orientation and is therefore not managed relative to an index. However, the Fund's primary benchmark, as noted in the current prospectus, is the The BofA/Merrill Lynch US Dollar 3-Month LIBOR Constant Maturity Index.

The BofA/Merrill Lynch US Dollar 3-Month LIBOR Constant Maturity Index represents the London interbank offered rate (LIBOR) with a constant 3-month average maturity. LIBOR, published by the British Bankers Association, is a composite of the rates of interest at which banks borrow from one another in the London market, and is a widely used benchmark for short-term interest rates. An investment cannot be made directly in an index.
